Dan was my roommate and my friend before he was my brother in law. He was the one that introduced me to his little sister who would one day become my wife. He was always there for you if you needed something. He and his wife Patty and my wife Jeannette and I, spent many vacations together enjoying the caribbean. It is with great sadness that he is no longer with us.

Dan was a good teacher and team player while he and I worked at Old Mill High School. He got the job done and had a good time doing it. I often recall the pranks and quips that made the day in the planning room. If you worked with Dan or had him as a teacher you enjoyed the encounter.

I met Danny when I first moved to Maryland in 1974, and we immediately became great friends. In the following years we dined together, played racquetball, socialized, and had the occasional drink together. Danny was of a very generous nature and did more favors for me than I could ever repay. I had the greatest respect for him and honor his memory.

Mr. Bredon was one of the best teachers I had in high school, and certainly the one who had the biggest impact on my life. I had him for Geometry as a freshman starting in 1976 and then for Computer Science. He was a fantastic teacher and mentor. I remember Geometry being hard, but Mr Bredon explaining complex concepts very clearly. Computers had just become available at OMHS when I took Computer Science with Mr. Bredon, but after taking his class I decided to major in computer science in college and I'm still working in that industry 35 year later. Thank you Mr. Bredon and rest in peace.

I never had a course with Mr. Bredon during my 4 years at Old Mill, but I always knew him to be one of the great teachers at the school. I'm sorry for your loss. I found a Baltimore Sun article from the "dotcom" era about a student who repaid Mr. Bredon's kindness with a donation to the school to create the Dan Bredon Computer Lab. I've added it to the Historical Documents for you to remember what a positive example he was for others and how that memory continues to live on at Old Mill.
