"Children Do Not Realize" As children, we can't comprehend or fully realize the meaning of our parent's love, how tender and how wise...Their patience and their guidance, their helpful, caring ways. The special, thoughtful things they did to brighten up the days. Years go by before we know the depth of their concerns. The love in their protectiveness – it takes so long to learn. But as we grow, we understand, for we look back and see, through older eyes and wiser hearts, their love and loyalty...And it's all these special things that make them grow more dear, more admired and more appreciated with every passing year.

....when I think back to our yoga days together, I chuckle remembering "downward dog" and our rolling off the mats into fits of laughter. Namaste! Inevitably though, we really new it was all about our getting that next cup of java in the end, followed by more laughter. Things are different now so....till then, may God hold you in the palm of His hand, dear friend. Until we meet again. Always ~ Margie

To add to the sweetness; when the Wilmites did the dumbest thing by turning over the little boat, and ruining the motor. I can remember the voice of kindness (while we were hiding from Mr. M in the upstairs room wreathing in pain) which we probably did not deserve. We deserved the pain not the kindness, "does anyone need any meat tenderizer for the jellyfish stings?"Just the most caring individual to anyone!All I can say is Thanks, because without Mrs. Maegerle, I would have missed out on a very beautiful and caring individual.Thanks!
