Glenn was my neighbor for almost 18 years but more important, he was a close friend. He was always ready to help anyone including mechanically challenged people like me. We loved to attend Shore Bird baseball games and fish from his boat. He tried to attend local boat shows to see the latest models. Most important, he was proud of his family; his service as a USAF vet; and his career as a Philly police officer. I miss Glenn and still find myself looking for him. Rest in peace, buddy! Joe Ruiz.

Logan Smargissi lit a candle in honor of Glenn.

Meeting him for the first time and then he would talk about his time in the airforce was always something I enjoyed and will never forget.

Though I was only welcomed into the family somewhat recently, Glenn made me feel like one of his own. He was truly one of the most caring and family oriented people I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. His presence will be felt forever.

Not a day goes by that I don't think of my pop-pop. He was an incredibly hard working, resilient man who loved his family and the life he built. Hello Kim. This is Tom Kavanagh. Wally Kavanagh's son. Your dad was the best. I remember visiting him when I would go see my dad in Delaware. I hope you see this.
