“ Kris, I've known you since we were children. I will never forget you. I remember the times when my family would come over on the weekends and have pizza and play Kanasta with your mom and grandmom. Also when we would run into each other and catch up on things then to realize we spent 15mins in the store running are mouth. Great memories!

“ I first met Kris as his 8th grade English teacher at Rehoboth Junior High School in 1990. More than a dozen years later, he pulled over on Route 1 north of Milford to help a stranger with a disabled vehicle. That stranger turned out to be me. Kris got right down to work changing my flat tire and refused to let me assist, concerned that I not get my clothes dirty. My guess is that such acts of kindness were routine for Kris. May he rest in peace, knowing that his strong hands and kind heart helped make the world a better place.
